

AGILITY RIGHT FROM THE START

Exercises.....	vi
Publisher’s note.....	ix
Foreword.....	xi
Preface.....	xiii
Part I: Training fundamentals	1
Chapter 1: Introduction	3
Our training program.....	4
Our goal: A happy and confident dog.....	4
Building blocks for agility	5
1. You need to develop your theoretical understanding of dogs, training, and agility	5
2. You and your dog need to learn foundation skills	6
3. You need to put it all together.....	7
Chapter 2: Learning theory	9
Behavior and learning	10
Behavior is what matters.....	10
Learning alters behavior	10
Classical conditioning	10
Unconditioned responses	10
Conditioned responses: learned expectations	11
Changing already learned expectations	11
What does this have to do with agility?	12
Sidebar: The Premack principle	12
Operant conditioning.....	12
Reinforcement, punishment, and extinction	12
Box: Positive and negative reinforcement and punishment, plus extinction	13
Operant conditioning in your agility training	14
Chapter 3: Clicker training – science-based dog training.....	17
The basics of clicker training.....	18
Training by clicker training principles.....	18
The marker signal	19
Rewarding without marking	20
Five keys to successful clicker training	21
Reinforcers.....	22
Treats and toys	22
Social interaction and play.....	23

Sidebar: What's fun?	23
Opportunity to perform desirable behaviors	23
Box: The tiered cake	24
Rewards as distractions and distractions as rewards.....	24
How to get behavior	25
Different ways to get behavior.....	26
Sidebar: Making the dog do something, or teaching him to do it	26
Sidebar: The lure of luring	28
When and how to advance	28
Fade your aids	29
Add variations and distractions.....	29
Add duration to the behavior	29
Add distance to the behavior.....	30
Vary the reward ratio	30
"Name" the behavior.....	30
Sidebar: Verbal cues in our agility training	30
Sidebar: Discrimination, cues, and stimulus control	31
Form a behavior chain	31
What to do when mistakes happen	31
Good management	32
Sidebar: The trouble with aversives	33
TAGteach: Clicker training for people	34
Sidebar: A TAGteach glossary	34
Chapter 4: Good Agility Practices	37
The rules of Good Agility Practices	38
1. Keep your focus on the exercise and your dog	38
Why?.....	38
How?.....	38
2. Work with high intensity when training	39
Why?.....	39
How?.....	39
3. Remain true to your system of handling	40
Why?.....	40
How?.....	40
Chapter 5: Agility basics	43
What agility is all about	44
List of priorities.....	44
Obstacle performance and handling: different areas of responsibility	44
The obstacle performance part	45
The obstacles – as the rulebook sees them.....	45
The obstacles – as we choose to train them	46
Box: The obstacles and our suggested training goals for the dog	46
Independent obstacle performance	47
The handling part	47

Handling systems	47
Sidebar: Independent obstacle performance vs. handler-dependent performance	47
Sidebar: Your dog's innate understanding of body language	48
Sidebar: Why is it important to have a well-thought-out system of handling?	48
The basics of our handling system.....	49
Sidebar: Greg Derrett's handling system	49
Always follow your handling system	50
Part II: Foundation skills for you and your dog.....	52
Chapter 6: About Foundation Training	55
What you'll learn in Part II, Foundation skills for you and your dog.....	56
Sidebar: The road ahead: putting it together	58
Dog training isn't strictly linear.....	59
The benefits of foundation work.....	60
Sidebar: The drawbacks of skipping foundation work	61
Teaching your dog foundation skills	59
Sidebar: Learning to offer behaviors voluntarily	61
Equipment.....	62
A word about verbal cues	62
Working equally on your left and right sides.....	62
A great training session.....	63
Checklist for great training sessions	64
Sidebar: Thinking, planning, and record keeping	64
Box: A great training session: thinking and planning	65
Box: A great training session: working with your dog	66
Box: A great training session: the review	66
Reader's guidelines	67
Sidebar: Employ TAGteach	67
Chapter 7. Training yourself	69
Becoming a trainer and a handler	70
Get in the mindset.....	70
Coordination and body control.....	71
Exercise 1: The flight attendant drill	71
Timing	72
What should precise timing look like?.....	72
Improving your timing: Mark at the right moment.....	72
Exercise 2: Clicker practice	73
Exercise 3: Press Pause	73
Setting criteria: the basics of shaping	74
What should appropriate criteria look like?.....	74
Practicing setting criteria	74
Play the Training Game	75

Exercise 4: The training game	75
The training game, plush animal version	75
A few tips	76
Treat delivery	77
What should effective treat delivery look like?	77
Practicing treat delivery	77
Treats to plate.....	77
Exercise 5: Treats to plate, basic version	77
Sidebar: Where to keep the treats and toys	78
Exercise 6: Treats to plate, many treats in the delivery hand	78
Switching hands	79
Exercise 7: Switching hands	79
Precision throwing	79
What should precision throwing look like?	80
Practicing precision throwing	80
Exercise 8: Throw along a set line	80
Exercise 9: Throw a certain distance	81
Exercise 10: Improve your precision throwing	81
Remaining neutral	81
What should “remaining neutral” look like?	81
Why is it so important to remain neutral?.....	81
Practicing remaining neutral	82
Click first, then treat to plate.....	82
Exercise 11: Click, then treat to plate	83
Exercise 12: Treats to plate, one treat ready in the delivery hand	83
Exercise 13: Click, then treat to plate, many treats in the delivery hand	84
Giving a start cue while remaining neutral	84
Exercise 14: Say “go”, then throw the toy – while standing still	85
Exercise 15: Say “go”, then throw the toy – while moving	86
Varying your own behavior	86
Handling basics in the Oval	87
What should performing the Oval look like?.....	87
Why do you need it?	88
Practicing the Oval.....	88
Sidebar: Shoulders!	89
Chapter 8: Reward Procedures	91
The role of rewards in your training	92
Reward requirements	92
Various rewards and reward procedures	94
Sidebar: So your dog is going crazy over his rewards? Perfect!	94
Sidebar: Vary the reward type, source, and delivery	94
Tasty treats	94
Thrilling toys.....	95
Treats disguised as toys	95

Introducing the clicker	96
What should “click and treat” look like?	96
What should it look like when you use your clicker to mark a behavior?	96
Teaching your dog the meaning of the clicker.....	97
Charging the clicker.....	97
Exercise 16: Charging the clicker	98
Developing a taste for treats.....	98
The treat magnet	99
What should the treat magnet look like?.....	99
Why do you need the treat magnet?.....	99
How can you train it?.....	99
Step 1: Get the treat magnet behavior.....	100
Exercise 17: Teach the treat magnet	100
Sidebar: A cue for the treat magnet behavior?.....	101
Step 2: Build duration.....	101
Step 3: Add distractions.....	101
Developing a joy for toys	102
Release the toy	103
What should release the toy look like.....	103
Why do you need it?	104
How can you train it?.....	104
Step 1: Release the toy.....	104
Step 2: Add a “thank you” cue.....	105
Step 3: Maintain the release.....	105
Sidebar: Skip the “thank you” cue and just steal the toy!	106
Tug	106
What should the game of tug look like?	106
Why do you need the tug part?	106
Why do you need the release part?	107
How can you train it?.....	107
Step 1, version A: Shape tug using the game itself as a reward	107
Step 1, version B: Shape tug using treat rewards.....	108
Exercise 18: Get into that sock	109
Sidebar: Tug – release – tug again!	110
Step 2: Build duration.....	110
Step 3: Add distractions.....	110
Step 4: Add a “get it” cue	111
Chase and come back.....	111
What should chase and come back look like?	111
Why do you need the “chase” part?	112
Why do you need the “come back” part?.....	112
How can you train it?.....	112
Step 1: Push the toy into your hand	113
Stage 1: Teach a hand target.....	113
Exercise 19: Shape the hand touch.....	114
Stage 2: Get the grab and hold.....	114

Sidebar: Introduce your release cue	115
Stage 3: Push the toy into your hand	115
Step 2: Come toward you with the toy.....	116
Step 3: Pick up the toy	116
Step 4: Chase the toy.....	116
Informally encouraging your dog to chase and come back	117
Chapter 9: Transports.....	119
Staying in the training bubble	120
Transport requirements	120
Different means of transport	120
Treat magnet and tug transports.....	121
Sidebar: Using transports after a mistake	122
Collar transports and lift-and-carry.....	122
Using a recall	123
Hand target transports	123
Practice getting to a good starting point	124
Exercise 20: Get to the starting point	124
Chapter 10: Getting behavior: two favorite strategies	127
Our favorite teaching strategies	128
Sidebar: Practice without your dog first!	129
Shaping Aim for it.....	129
What should Aim for it look like?	130
Why do you need Aim for it?	130
Sidebar: Making use of Aim for it	131
How can you train it?.....	131
Sidebar: Place the reward ahead of your dog!	132
Sidebar: Train your dog; don't hide the reward	132
Shaping Aim for the mat.....	132
Step 1: Nose pointing toward the mat for a millisecond.....	133
Exercise 21: Begin shaping Aim for the mat, delivering many rewards on the way	133
Exercise 22: Begin shaping Aim for the mat, delivering just one reward far ahead	134
Box: Guidelines for shaping Aim for it	135
Box: Guidelines for shaping Aim for it (continued)	136
Step 2: Actively point the nose forward	137
Step 3: Step forward, toward the mat.....	137
Step 4: Dash all the way to the mat.....	138
Troubleshooting	139
Sidebar: What is "troubleshooting"?	138
Treats, toy, clicker – I have too many things and too few hands. Help!.....	138
My dog never looks forward, he just stares at me!.....	138
It feels as if I'm just luring and clicking!.....	139
I'm getting the behavior but my dog moves very slowly!	139

Shaping Aim for it using the Bermuda Triangle	140
What should Aim for it look like in the Bermuda Triangle?	140
Why do you need the Bermuda Triangle?	141
How can you train it?	141
Sidebar: Another bonus of the Bermuda triangle	142
A few Bermuda Triangle tips.....	142
Race to reward	142
What should Race to reward look like?.....	142
Why do you need Race to reward ?.....	143
Sidebar: Making use of Race to reward	144
How can you train it?	144
Step 1: Get the behavior: Teach your dog to race to the reward.....	145
Exercise 23: Teach your dog to race to his reward	146
Sidebar: Three ways to switch sides	147
Step 2: Reduce helper's actions; add variations and distractions	147
Troubleshooting	148
But it feels as if my dog is just trying to get away from me!.....	148
What should I do if my dog is hesitant and asking for permission to go?	148
What do I do if my dog is reluctant to run to the helper?	149
Won't this exercise create rude and crazy dogs that run around wildly	149
Sidebar: The spontaneous starts are important	149
Chapter 11: Between, around, over, onto, under, and through	151
Box: Foundation skills	152
Box: Obstacles	153
Working with various pieces of equipment	154
Sidebar: Avoid luring	155
The equipment	155
Your handling while your dog is working	155
Teaching the skills with both strategies	156
Box: Teaching equipment-related skills using Aim for it and Race to reward	157
Box: Teaching equipment-related skills (continued)	158
Teaching between/around/over/onto/under/through using Aim for it.....	159
What should it look like?	159
Why do you need it?	159
How can you train it?	160
Sidebar: The difference between a thrilling, moving reward and a lure	162
Step 1: Get the behavior.....	163
Exercise 24: Go under a chair using Aim for it	163
Step 2: Vary the angle (when applicable).....	164
Step 3: Add variations and distractions	164
Step 4: Increase the distance	164
Sidebar: To mark or not to mark when training "aim for it"?	165
Teaching between/over/onto/under/through using Race to reward	165
What should it look like?	165
Why do you need it?	165

How can you train it?	166
Sidebar: use Race to reward only when you want your dog to actually race!	166
Step 1: Add equipment in Race to reward	167
Sidebar: What if my dog hesitates?	168
Exercise 25: Race to reward, equipment added	168
Step 2: Add angles; require that your dog choose the right path	168
Exercise 26: Go between at an angle	170
Step 3: Vary the distance	170
Sidebar: How to deal with mistakes	171
Sidebar: To mark or not to mark when Racing to reward?	171
Step 4: Increase the difficulty of the equipment	171
Step 5: Add variations and distractions	171
Chapter 12: Noise and movement	173
Bombproofing your dog	174
Making use of classical and operant conditioning	174
Sidebar: A note on different kinds of dogs	175
Teaching your dog to like, create, and demand noise.....	175
What should it look like when your dog likes, creates, and demands noise?	175
Why do you need it?	176
How can you train it?	176
Step 1: Teach your dog to like noise.....	176
Exercise 27: Classically condition your dog to enjoy noise	176
Step 2: Teach your dog to create noise (through you)	177
Sidebar: No aversive noise!	177
Exercise 28: Teach your dog to create noise through you-hand touch version .	177
Step 3: Teach your dog to create noise (on his own)	178
Exercise 29: Teach your dog to create noise on his own	178
Step 4: Teach your dog to demand noise	179
Teaching your dog to like, create, and demand movement.....	180
What should it look like when your dog likes, creates, and demands movement?....	180
Why do you need it?	181
How can you train it?	181
Step 1: Preparation: Teach your dog to stand on the board	181
Exercise 30: Teach your dog to mount a stable board	181
Sidebar: Your dog is always free to choose	182
Step 2: Teach your dog to like movement	182
Exercise 31: Introduce your dog to movement on the board	182
Step 3: Teach your dog to create movement (you move the board)	183
Exercise 32: Teach your dog to trigger you to move the board	183
Step 4: Teach your dog to create movement (your dog moves the board on his own)	184
Exercise 33: Teach your dog to move the board himself	184
Step 5: Teach your dog to demand movement.....	184

Noise and movement in your everyday life	184
Sidebar: Social facilitation	185
Chapter 13: Rear-end control	187
Developing rear-end control	188
Step by Step: forward, backward, and sideways	188
What should step by step look like?	189
Why do you need it?	189
How can you train it?.....	189
Walking forward	190
Backing up	191
Sidestepping.....	193
Sidebar: Other rear-end and body control training	195
Chapter 14: Starts and Stays	197
Spontaneous or on cue?	198
The spontaneous start.....	198
The start on cue.....	200
Use both spontaneous starts and start-line stays	201
Sidebar: Set your rules and stick to them	201
The secrets of a perfectly reliable start-line stay	201
Teaching the start, teaching the stay	202
Start on cue	203
Sidebar: The start cue	203
What should start on cue look like?	203
Why do you need it?	203
How can you train it?.....	203
Teaching the start cue using Race to reward	204
Exercise 34: Add the “go” cue	204
Teach “Go” and throw	205
Sidebar: Yes, this training procedure contradicts what we normally advocate ..	205
Exercise 35: Say “go” and throw: Say “go” just before the toy appears	206
Exercise 36: “Go” and throw: Say “go” and throw the toy as your dog starts ..	206
Stay	207
What should Stay and start look like?	207
Why do you need the stay?	207
Which position should I teach my dog?.....	207
Sidebar: You can teach more than one start position if you wish	208
How can you train it?.....	208
Step 1: Use Race to reward to get the first hint of a stay	209
Exercise 37: Get the first ounce of balance	209
Step 2: Shape a longer stay	210
Step 3: Introduce variations and distractions	210
Exercise 38: Add variations and distractions while your dog stands still and starts on cue	210
Step 4: Let go of your dog	211

Exercise 39: Start-line stay, hands off collar	212
Sidebar: Broken criteria	212
Sidebar: "Helping" doesn't help!	212
Sidebar: Your position and your movement when practicing race to reward from a start-line stay	213
Sidebar: Cue to look ahead?	214
Sidebar: It's all about stimulus control	214
Sidebar: Possibly add a "ready, steady" cue	214
Contrast training: Varying between spontaneous starts and start-line stays.....	215
Exercise 40: Contrasting between spontaneous starts and starts on cue	215
Separately training the stay behavior	216
To get the stand.....	216
To keep your dog in a stand.....	216
Sidebar: The stay continues after each reward	216
Exercise 41: Nailing your dog in a stand	217
Generalization, thy name is variation	218
Vary your own behavior and position.....	218
Use potential rewards as distractions.....	218
Vary when and how you reward	219
Vary the location and add other potential distractions.....	219
Chapter 15: Follow me	221
Teaching your dog to follow your shoulders	222
Sidebar: Handling reminder	222
Outside circles	222
What should outside circles look like?	223
Why do you need it?	223
How can you train it?.....	223
Step 1: Teach your dog to stay on your outside when moving in a circle	224
Exercise 42: Walk the first circles with your dog on the outside	225
Sidebar: Inside circles	225
Step 2: Introduce more intermittent rewards, increase the speed, and vary the size of the circle	225
Troubleshooting	226
Race to me	226
What should Race to me look like?.....	227
Why do you need it?	227
How can you train it?.....	227
Step 1: Teach your dog to race straight to you	227
Exercise 43: Race to me: Get the behavior, no cue	228
Step 2. Add your start cue.....	228
Sidebar: Teaching an attention/come to me cue	229
Exercise 44: Race to me: Add the cue	229
Step 3: Add variations and start-line stays to Race to me	229

Part III: Putting it all together	230
Chapter 16: About handling and obstacle training.....	233
What you'll learn in part III, Putting it all together	234
Chapter 17: Handling maneuvers on the flat.....	237
About handling.....	238
The obstacles and rewards	238
The direction of your shoulders	238
Your moving ahead or stopping/standing still	238
Sidebar: Defining "ahead of you"	239
Sidebar: Dog-stride glossary.....	239
Sidebar: Stopping.....	239
Sidebar: Constants in your handling training	240
Handling training	240
Sidebar: Customize exercises to your handling training	241
Sidebar: Using remote rewards/distractions to train reliable handling responses.....	241
Straight ahead	242
What should straight ahead look like?	242
How can you train it?.....	242
Sidebar: Your position and movement when practicing straight ahead to a remote reward.....	243
Racing straight past you.....	243
Exercise 45: Run straight past the handler to a remote reward.....	244
Exercise 46: Run straight past the handler to a thrown toy (no remote reward).....	245
Regular turn	245
What should a regular turn look like.....	245
How can you train it?.....	245
Regular turn in the outside circle	245
Exercise 47: Turn tight in the outside circle.....	245
Race to me and turn	245
Exercise 48: Race to me and turn, reward immediately.....	247
Exercise 49: Race to me and turn, then Race to reward	247
Contrast training: straight ahead or turning?	248
Front cross	250
What should the front cross look like?	250
Front-cross footwork.....	250
Step 1: Find your path in the Figure Eight.....	251
Sidebar: Illustrating the front cross.....	251
Exercise 50: Find your path in the Figure Eight	252
Step 2: Practice the toes-in, toes-out footwork separately	252
Exercise: Twirl to the right	253
Step 3: Polish the perfect three-step front cross.....	253
Exercise 52: Three-step footwork in the Figure Eight.....	253
How can you teach your dog to respond to your front cross?	255

Front cross in the outside circle	255
Exercise 53: Front cross in the outside circle	255
Race to me and turn with a front cross	256
Exercise 54: Race to me and front cross, reward immediately	256
Contrasts: Straight ahead, regular turn, or front cross?	256
Stopping/standing still	257
What should stopping/standing still look like?	257
Sidebar: Stopping/standing still, cueing a wrap	257
Sidebar: Some cautions	258
How can you train it?	258
Race to me and stop with me	258
Exercise 55: Stop with me	258
Exercise 56: Come to me when I stand still	259
Contrasts: stop or keep going straight ahead?	259
Rear cross	260
What should the rear cross look like?	260
How can you train it?	260
Rear cross exercise: Step behind your dog	261
Exercise 57: Rear cross, step behind	261
Chapter 18: Jumps and tunnels.....	263
Teaching jumps and tunnels	264
Teaching the obstacles in four steps	264
Order of events.....	265
Jump wings.....	266
What should it look like when your dog performs the jump wings?	267
Why do you need jump-wing training?	267
How can you train it?	267
Step 1: Get the behavior.....	267
Box: Jump wings: get the behavior	268
Always remember	269
Step 2: Expand the understanding.....	269
Box: Expand the understanding	269
Sidebar: Your handling at severe angles	271
Sidebar: Avoid rewarding away from your dog's path	272
Step 3: Get the flow	272
Box: Jump wings: get the flow	272
Sidebar: This is my dance space, this is your dance space	274
Sidebar: Using helpers to throw rewards	274
Sidebar: Don't get stuck behind the wing!	276
Tunnels.....	277
What should it look like when your dog performs a tunnel?	277
How can you train it?	277
Step 1: Get the behavior.....	277
Box: Tunnels: get the behavior	278
Sidebar: Stay consistent	280

Step 2: Expand the understanding.....	281
Box: Tunnels: expand the understanding	281
Step 3: Get the flow	281
Box: Tunnels: get the flow	281
Different kinds of jumps.....	282
What should it look like when your dog performs a jump?.....	282
How can you train it?.....	282
Sidebar: Jumping demands	283
Sidebar: Glossary of jump types	284
Step 1: Get the behavior.....	284
Box: Jumps: get the behavior	284
Step 2: Add new variations using Race to reward	286
Box: Jumps: Expand the understanding and get the flow, using Race to reward	286
Sidebar: Jump-training setups	288
Step 3: Introducing Aim for it.....	289
Box: Introduce Aim for it, expand the understanding, and get the flow	289
Sidebar: Knocked bars	290
Sidebar: Actually jumping is key	290
The tire.....	290
What should it look like when your dog performs the tire?	290
How can you train it?.....	290
Step 1: Get the behavior.....	291
Box: Tire: Get the behavior	292
Step 2: Expand the understanding.....	293
Box: Tire: Expand the understanding	293
Step 3: Get the flow	294
Box: Tire: get the flow	294
Chapter 19: Handling sequences.....	297
Combining handling maneuvers and obstacle performance	298
Sidebar: “Right” or “wrong” depends on your handling system!	299
Teaching your dog to follow your handling in sequences	299
Sidebar: Sequencing fuses Aim for it and Race to reward	300
Always consider where to start and where to finish	300
Sidebar: Imagine a videotape	301
Employ back-chaining	301
Contrasts	301
Handling mistakes.....	301
Walk the course.....	302
Straight ahead and regular turns	303
What should straight ahead and a regular turn look like?.....	303
How can you train straight lines?.....	304
Sidebar: Avoid layering	306
Sidebar: Regular turn when taking an obstacle “from behind”	308
Sidebar: Some frequent regular turn sequences: 90°, 180°, and 270° turns	310

Contrast straight ahead and regular turns
Sidebar: Going straight or turning	311
Sidebar: Going straight or turning (continued)	312
Front cross	314
Sidebar: How do I know when I need to switch sides?	314
What should the front cross look like?	314
Sidebar: Three-step reminder	315
How can you train front crosses?	315
Sidebar: What if I can't make it to the front cross?	316
Front crosses with distractions.....	317
Front crosses in the start: "lead-out pivot"	319
Front cross on the outside of a 270° turn.....	319
Rear cross	320
What should the rear cross look like.....	320
How can you train rear crosses?	321
Step 1: Send to the jump and cross behind, using Race to reward	322
Exercise 58: The first rear crosses (releasing your dog at takeoff and crossing right away)	323
Exercise 59: Increase the distance to the jump (running the diagonal)	323
Step 2: Send to the jump and cross behind, using Aim for it.....	324
Step 3: Add obstacles after the rear cross, exiting in various directions	325
Step 4: Add obstacles before the rear cross, approaching from various directions	326
Sidebar: The finer details of where to point your shoulders	326
Sidebar: Driving ahead is key	327
The wrap	328
What should a wrap look like	328
Your dog has to adjust his stride.....	328
Sidebar: Jump technique training	328
How can you train wraps	328
Jump and turn tight	329
Exercise 60: The first wrap	329
Sidebar: What if my dog hesitates to take the jump?	330
Wraps on course.....	331
Sidebar: What if I can't make it to the wing?	331
The threadle	332
Sidebar: An "abbreviation" of two front crosses	332
What should the threadle look like	333
Sidebar: Threadle footwork	333
How can you train the threadle?	334
Sidebar: Wait until you and your dog are ready	334
Step 1: Come to you in threadle position.....	334
Exercise 61: Use your threadle arm to pull your dog past the jump wing	334
Step 2: The second arm change	335
Exercise 62: Pull your dog between the jumps, then send him ahead over the second jump'	335
Step 3: The first arm change	336

Exercise 63: Send your dog over jump #1, then pull him between the jumps	336
Sidebar: What if I can't make it to the wing?	336
Step 4: Do the full threadle	336
Exercise 64: Do a complete threadle	336
Threadles in more open settings	337
The serpentine	338
Two full front crosses on either side of the middle obstacle	339
What should the serpentine look like?	340
How can you train the serpentine?.....	340
Step 1: Come toward you over the serpentine jump	341
Exercise 65: Use your serpentine arm to bring your dog toward you over the middle jump	341
Step 2: The second arm change	342
Exercise 66: Bring your dog toward you over the middle jump, switch arms, and reward	342
Step 3: The first arm change	343
Exercise 67: Send your dog over jump #1, switch arms, and bring him toward you over jump #2	344
Step 4: Do the full serpentine.....	345
Further sequencing	346
Tailor your sequences to your level of training	346
Set goals for each sequence	346
Minor adjustments, major progress.....	347
Longer sequences.....	347
Complex sequences.....	348
Altering given sequences	349
Chapter 20: The contact obstacles	351
About contact training.....	352
Sidebar: The contact zones	352
Aspects to consider when choosing your contact behavior	353
Sidebar: But doesn't stopping on the contact cost a lot of time?	354
Two-on/two-off.....	354
What should the finished two-on/two-off performance look like?.....	354
Sidebar: Two-on/two-off with a nose touch	355
How can you train the two-on/two-off behavior?.....	355
Sidebar: Train your contacts meticulously, step by step	356
Sidebar: Just for fun, or a competitive edge?	356
Box: Away from the obstacles	356
Box: On the A-frame and dogwalk	356
Box: On the teeter	356
Box: Prerequisites for training the contact obstacles	357
Foot target.....	358
Sidebar: Our actual criterion: at least one foot on the target	358
What should the foot-target behavior look like?.....	358
Equipment.....	358

Why do you need it?	359
How can you train it?	359
Sidebar: Don't add a target cue for your contact work!	360
Step 1: Basic foot-target work	360
Stage 1: Get the behavior: foot on target	360
Sidebar: placement of reward	360
Exercise 68: Get the foot-target behavior	361
Sidebar: Tips to avoid curling	362
Sidebar: Constantly vary your own behavior a little bit	362
Stage 2: Make it fast and fluent	362
Exercise 69: Teach your dog to Step on it	363
Stage 3: Add variations and distractions.....	363
Step 2: Hold the position at the target, start on cue	363
Sidebar: Why is the start cue so important?	364
Sidebar: "Go" and throw or Race to reward	364
Method 1: Build duration using solely the start cue as reward.....	364
Exercise 70: Teach your dog to hold his position on the target, rewarding solely with your start cue	364
Method 2: Build duration using multiple rewards in position	365
Sidebar: Click or no click?	365
Exercise 71: Teach your dog to hold his position on the target, rewarding with multiple treats in position (and ending with the start cue)	365
Sidebar: What if my dog doesn't hit the target?	366
Sidebar: What if my dog doesn't respond to my start cue?	366
Step 3: Add further variations and distractions.....	366
Sidebar: Don't just proof your dog for holding position!	367
Step 4: Increase the distance	367
Exercise 72: Hit the target from a distance	367
Sidebar: Using a cue to release your dog to the target	368
Step 5: Step down to the target	368
Exercise 73: Target over an edge	368
Step 6: Fade the target.....	369
Two-on/two-off	370
What should the two-on/two-off behavior look like?	370
Equipment.....	370
Sidebar: Why does the first step of the two-on/two-off training differ from the first step of target training?	371
Step 1: Step down, reward in position, and start on cue	371
Stage 1: Get the behavior: step down	371
Exercise 74: Shape your dog to step over the edge	372
Sidebar: Tips for getting your dog to step down straight ahead	374
Sidebar: One or two feet on the ground?	375
Stage 2: Make it fast and fluent	375
Stage 3: Add variations and distractions.....	375
Step 2: Hold the position.....	376
Step 3: Add further variations and distractions.....	376

Step 4: Find the edge from a distance	376
A-frame and dogwalk	376
What should the finished A-frame and dogwalk performance look like?	377
The obstacles.....	377
How can you train it?.....	377
A-frame and dogwalk training in six steps	378
Steps 1-3: Get the behavior, vary the duration, and add variations and distractions.....	379
Sidebar: What do I do if my dog doesn't put his feet where I want them?	379
Step 4: Vary where you are going after the obstacle	379
Step 5: Increase the distance	380
Step 6: Vary where you come from before the obstacle.....	381
Sidebar: What if my dog doesn't ascend the obstacle correctly?	382
The teeter	382
What should the finished teeter performance look like?	382
Sidebar: "Four on the contact" on the teeter	383
How can you train it?.....	383
Sidebar: Teeter cautions	384
Sidebar: Pressure-free teeter training	384
Step 1: Learn what to do at the end of the teeter	384
Stage 1: Teeter movement	385
Exercise 75: Rock the boat (teeter movement equals treat)	386
Exercise 76: C'mon, make it move! (create teeter movement through you)	387
Sidebar: To click or not to click	387
Sidebar: What about the contact performance?	387
Stage 2: Teeter impact	387
Exercise: C'mon, slam!	388
Sidebar: It depends on your dog's size	388
Sidebar: Teeter woes	388
Stage 3: Rehearse the two-on/two-off + freeze + start cue	389
Stage 4: Add movement + impact to the chain	389
Exercise 78: Two-on/two-off after movement and impact	389
Step 2: Run to the start button.....	390
Sidebar: Why should the "start button" be so far out?	390
Stage 1: Run all the way to the start button	390
Stage 2: Hit the start button and make the teeter move	391
Sidebar: Secure the target	391
Exercise 79: Push the button, make the teeter move!	391
Sidebar: Using a lower teeter	392
Stage 3: Perform the whole obstacle "competition style"	392
Sidebar: Just trying to get there	392
Sidebar: The teeter cue	393
Step 3: Vary where you are going after the teeter	393
Step 4: Vary where you are coming from.....	393
Maintaining brilliant performance on the contact obstacles	393
Stick to your criteria.....	394
Use your start cue as a reward	394

Go back to basics whenever you need to	394
Vary, vary, vary	394
Sidebar: Example of variations for contact performance	395
Keep it fun and exciting.....	395
Chapter 21: The table.....	397
Teaching the table.....	398
What should the table performance look like?	398
Resemblances to contact training.....	398
The process: table training in eight steps	398
Step 1: lie down	399
Sidebar: Teaching a sit, too	399
Stage 1: Get the down	400
Stage 2: Make it fast and fluent	401
Stage 3: Add variations and distractions.....	402
Step 2: Hold the position + start on cue.....	402
Step 3: Get onto (+ down + hold the position + start on cue).....	402
Step 4: Add further variations and distractions.....	404
Step 5: Vary where you're going after the table	404
Step 6: Increase the distance	404
Sidebar: Table cue?	404
Step 7: Vary where you're coming from	404
Step 8: Maintain the brilliant performance	405
Chapter 22: The weave poles	407
About training the weaves.....	408
Weave pole entries around the clock	408
Weave pole training strategies	410
Sidebar: Guiding props	410
How to succeed with your weave pole training	410
Aim for the weaves	412
One pair of poles	413
What should the performance at one pair of poles look like?.....	412
How can you train it?.....	413
Step 1: Get the behavior at 6 o'clock.....	414
Stage 1: Get the behavior at slightly open poles.....	414
Sidebar: This goes for all your weave pole training	415
Exercies 80: Get the behavior of "going between slightly open poles"	415
Stage 2: Get the behavior on closed poles	416
Step 2: Get the behavior around the clock	417
Sidebar: How will my dog know which direction the weaves go?	418
Sidebar: Using a set direction as a helping aid	418
Step 3: Expand the understanding.....	418
Stage 1: Add handler variations and other distractions	418
Stage 2: Vary the distance.....	419
Stage 3: Let your dog do several pairs of poles for one reward	420

Stage 4: Introduce Race to reward	420
Further weave pole training.....	421
Sidebar: The clicker and the weaves	421
Sidebar: Continue to the end of the weaves even if your dog makes a mistake...	421
Step 1: Work up to four poles	422
Strategy 1: Put two pairs of poles together	422
Strategy 2: Shape three to four poles	422
Strategy 3: Channels: advance from open to closed poles.....	423
Sidebar: A couple of brand names	423
Step 2: Get all angles at four poles	424
Step 3: Expand the understanding (working through all variations)	424
Sidebar: Distracting handling in the weave poles	424
Step 4: Work up to a full set of poles.....	425
Step 5: Vary where you are going after the poles.....	425
Step 6: Vary where you come from	427
Sidebar: Sending to the weaves from the “wrong” side	427
Troubleshooting in your wevae pole training.....	427
Mistakes and misunderstandings	428
Chapter 23: Parting thoughts	431
Happy training!.....	432
Resources	435
About the authors	437
Acknowledgements	439
Photography credits.....	440